Test Manager in the field of Security for Embedded Linux (m/f/d)

This is what waits for you at Linutronix:

As a Test Manager in the area of Security for Embedded Linux, you will develop test strategies, processes and plans in accordance with project requirements. You will perform risk analysis and identify test priorities based on business requirements. You will also be responsible for setting up and maintaining a test environment and infrastructure for effective project execution. In addition, you will conduct regular test status meetings and report to management on the progress of test activities. In the area of bug management, you will coordinate the development team to fix bugs. You will also continuously improve testing processes and methods through analysis and feedback loops.

You fit in well with us if you can bring the following to the job:

- Degree in computer science, engineering or equivalent
- Several years of professional experience in the field of software testing, with a special focus on security in the Linux environment
- ISTQB Advanced certification is preferred
- Extensive knowledge of testing methods, tools and processes
- Strong analytical and problem-solving skills, as well as excellent communication and teamwork skills
- Experience with testing and development tools (preferred: Gitlab, Jenkins, Python, Lava, Linux command line)
- Good command of German and English language

This is what we offer you:

- A respectful working atmosphere with an open corporate culture and flat hierarchies
- Exciting projects and customers
- Innovative technologies
- Large scope for creativity and personal responsibility
- Flexible working hours, mobile or hybrid office and part-time options
- Company pension allowance and capital-forming benefits
- Annual training budget
